Privacy Policy and Code of Ethics

#hack4edu | 7th International Edition — 2026

Privacy Policy

The ProFuturo Foundation hereby informs you that it will process your personal data for the purpose of managing your access to the Project and monitoring your experience. As a not-for-profit organisation, the ProFuturo Foundation will keep you informed of its activities. Furthermore, your data may be shared with partner organisations that require it for administrative, logistical and accreditation purposes, as well as for matters relating to the running of the Project. For further information, and to exercise your rights, please consult our privacy policy via the following link: https://profuturo.education/aviso-de-privacidad/

Code of Ethical Conduct

Hack4edu is an event at which no form of abuse or discrimination on the grounds of gender, origin, race, religion, disability, physical appearance, sexual orientation or gender identity will be tolerated. Participants who breach these rules may be penalised or expelled from the event at the organisers' discretion.

Hack4edu will not permit participating teams to work on challenges that are not directly related to improving digital education. Hack4edu promotes an education based on values that foster equal opportunities, human dignity, critical thinking and tolerance in a global and diverse society.

Hack4edu aims to foster communication and constructive debate in a safe, supportive, respectful and diverse environment. The following will be considered abusive behaviour:

- Offensive comments relating to gender, sexual identity or orientation, disability, physical appearance, age, race, religion, origin or religious beliefs.
- Comments relating to a participant's lifestyle, such as those concerning eating habits, health, family, work, etc.
- The sharing of sexual images in public online spaces, as well as intimidating behaviour or inappropriate messages.
- Inappropriate filming or photographing of any of the participants.
- Intimidation, harassment, filming, photography or systematic disruption of presentations will also be considered abusive behaviour.

- Jokes that may cause offence, sexist, xenophobic or LGBTI-phobic content, or any form of expression that could be seen as mocking or hateful towards any event attendee will not be tolerated.

The organisers ask for the cooperation of all attendees; therefore, if you experience any form of abusive behaviour or notice that someone may be a victim of it, we strongly urge you to report it to us so that we can take the appropriate action. In any case, disciplinary measures will always be at the discretion of the organisers.

Thank you for helping to make this a community-friendly and welcoming event.